

Informed consent – in whose interest?

Mini symposium organised by the Nordic Committee on Bioethics

The symposium focuses on informed consent in research. Critical views will be given on the use and usefulness of informed consent. Whose interests are protected? Is more information better ethics?

Tuesday, 13th June 2006

Duration of presentations: 30 minute talk + 20 minutes for discussion

14.30 Welcome

14.40 Is informed consent always necessary?

Angus Dawson, Senior Lecturer, Keele University, United Kingdom

15.30 How informed is informed consent?

Eugenijus Gefenas, Associate professor, Chair, National Committee on Biomedical Ethics, Lithuania

16.20 Coffee break

16.40 Informed consent in emergency research

Anne Gammelgaard, PhD, Institute of Public Health, University of Copenhagen, Denmark

17.30 Mini symposium ends

18.00 Dinner

20.00 Departure

22.00 Arrival Stockholm